credit. Determination, commitment, and good study skills are the only prerequisites. Students must bring their own laptop. All material is available for free online, and the program used will provide a free voucher for taking the corresponding exam, but our educators will explain, guide, review, practice, reinforce material with the students, as well as hold them accountable. Some studying at home and review of material will be required as well. Students who follow these classes thoroughly should be able to pass the corresponding CLEP exams with college credit-earning scores.

US History I (exam gives 1 semester course = 3 college credits) Description: 6 week course, running between June 12th and July 21st, with 2 classes of 2 hours each per week, for a total of 24 hours per course. Price for the entire course: $450; prorated solutions may be accepted, if the student proves capable of independent study for the portions which were missed).
